Asbestos Removal

Asbestos removal is one of the most highly legislated and specialised sectors in the UK. It is an extremely dangerous carcinogen. Exposure to asbestos currently causes approximately 5,000 deaths in the UK every year. Around 3,000 products were formerly manufactured containing asbestos fibres and it was only finally banned in 1999, so it is routinely discovered during building maintenance and renovations. Asbestos removal is a hazardous job and should only be carried out by a licensed professional.

Damada started trading in 2004 and, since then, our core activity is ensuring that your duties insofar as safe and legal removal of asbestos are carried out effectively. We hold full ARCA Membership (Asbestos Removal Contractors Association), the UK's leading asbestos removal association, representing the interests of asbestos removal contractors and associated businesses. We hold a 3-year license for asbestos works, issued by the HSE and are members of the ARCA Site Audit Accreditation Scheme. We also hold the ARCA Gold Award for training, evidencing our expertise and high standards in the asbestos removal industry.

We provide specialist services to a wide range of organisations across the public and private sectors, from small retail units to NHS hospitals and large-scale housing developments and cover a wide range of industry sectors, including health, education, manufacturing and retail, insurance and domestic. Damada is the trusted supplier of asbestos removal and sampling services to associates within chartered surveying practices, architects, loss adjusters, banks and insurance companies throughout the UK.

By engaging our services you can tick compliance obligations off your list as we will ensure that your asbestos removal work is undertaken in full compliance with all Health & Safety legislative requirements, thereby protecting you and your business from the risk of expensive fines or due legal process.
